Top Ten Blogposts in 2023 and Winter Break

Lena Hornkohl (Deputy Editor) (University of Vienna, Austria), Alba Ribera Martínez (Deputy Editor) (University Carlos III of Madrid, Spain), and Peter Citron (Editor) (White & Case, Belgium) · Thursday, December 21st, 2023

Thank you for another wonderful and eventful year in competition law and policy. Our readership grew and so did the ideas and exchanges on competition law. It is exciting to see the blog progress and your knowledge spread across the world.

In 2023, the ten most read blogposts were:

1. Deployers of High-Risk AI Systems: What Will Be Your Obligations Under the EU AI Act? by Muhammed Demircan (DLA Piper)
2. New EU competition rules for distribution agreements by Katarzyna Czapracka, Tilman Kuhn, Strati Sakellariou-Witt and Peter Citron (White & Case)
3. Killer Acquisitions and Article 22: A Step Too Far? by Alan Riley (College of Europe)
4. Google Shopping: The General Court takes its position by Johannes Persch (University of Mannheim)
5. Unravelling the ECJ's Verdict in Case C-211/22 – Super Bock: The Golden Rules to Assess Vertical Price-Fixing Agreements in EU Competition Law by Gonçalo Rosas, Inês F. Neves, Joana Fraga Nunes (Morais Leitão)
6. The Complementarity Between the DMA, the DSA and the GDPR: The European Commission's Template Relating to the Audited Description of Consumer Profiling Techniques by Alba Ribera Martínez (University Carlos III of Madrid)
7. Green Channel Route: Resolving the Impediment and Procedural Infirmities by Apurv Umredkar (Samvad Partners)

10. Google Android: The General Court takes its position by Johannes Persch (University of Mannheim)

We are looking forward to discuss the upcoming competition law challenges with you on the blog next year. We will start the year with a new addition to our team: Nils Imgarten will join as Deputy Editor as of 2024. Welcome to the team, Nils! Happy to have you. In 2024 we will also have our series on the main developments in competition law and policy again. Stay tuned!

In the meantime, the Kluwer Competition Law Blog will take a winter break and welcomes you back on 8 January 2024.

Happy Christmas and a wonderful new year!

Peter, Lena and Alba
